OK, let's stop!

The other morning my friend and co-worker Cristy and I devised a solution for all the major problems of the universe.

Everybody stop.
Just stop. Take a breath. Step back. Chill out.

Politicians, stop politicking. Forget about focus groups and pork spending and back room deals and war room strategies. Democrats aren't evil and neither are Republicans, so stop treating people with whom you disagree as enemies. We're all Americans, so stop!

People need to stop their violence. Stop beating your wife or your boyfriend or your kid. Stop getting drunk. Stop shooting up or snorting coke. Stop having babies with multiple partners. Just stop.

Pedophiles, stop molesting children. Pornographers, stop making the stuff. Mean people, stop being mean.

Stop stealing. Stop lying. Stop backbiting. Stop killing.

If you're holding a grudge against someone - stop. It doesn't matter. It's over. Get on with living because you're only hurting yourself.

Cristy and I decided that wars should stop and the oil companies should drill for oil in our own country. We decided that gas prices should stop rising and go back to an affordable amount.

Cars should stop making expensive-sounding noises and so should any electronic device or major appliance. Poverty and hunger should stop immediately.

People should stop breaking the law. That way they won't get arrested and wind up with their names in the paper and get upset when they do (and call the paper to complain).

People should stop driving too fast and too recklessly. Stop text messaging when you're supposed to be watching the road. (I added that one.) Everybody should wear seatbelts and take a multi-vitamin daily and eat enough fiber and treat their animals kindly.

If everyone would simply stop and take a breath and chill out all at the same time, we could regroup. We could all see that what we're doing isn't working, that our world is in a whirlwind, much like an over-tired toddler who badly needs a nap.

What if we all stopped and took a nap. Pour a glass of milk and maybe grab a cookie and then find a blanket and a comfy corner and be still for a little while.

Parents should stop putting guilt trips on kids (that was Cristy's idea) and kids should stop being sneaky. They should make their beds every day, keep their rooms clean and be nice to their brothers or sisters. Parents should stop nagging or demanding perfect-tion. Kids should not be rude or defiant.

GRACE NOTES

No one should be envious or proud or boastful or lazy. Let's all do what Rodney King suggested and all get along.

Stop being greedy. Start sharing.

If you don't want to eat meat or sugar or trans-fats, let those who do enjoy them. Same with those who don't want to believe in God. Let those of us who do, do so. Stop trying to remove God from American society.

Stop being offended. Everyone is offended over everything. When did we humans get to be such namby-pamby wienies? Stop it! Just stop.

We all want the same things. We all want peace in our soul. We want love and we want to be needed. We want to enjoy our work and our leisure and our food. We want to laugh with joy and delight because, despite hardship and adversity, life is good.

We want to express our creativity and create beauty. We want shiny hair and smooth skin.

We want hope.

I think sometimes we forget that's what we really want. When we do and chase power and prestige and money and might, that's when we hurt others and hurt ourselves, so let's just stop.

Stop, and listen to our hearts beat, feel the rise and fall of our chests as we breathe, stop and marvel at the complexities of the universe and the wonder of nature.

In Psalm 46 God says, "Be still and know that I am God."

That means stop. Take a breath. Step back. Chill out. Since God says it, maybe we all should do it. It just might make a difference, at least it might be a start.

Cynthiana man faces multiple charges after alleged attempt to elude police

By BECKY BARNES, Editor
Kentucky State Police Tpr. Jack Gabriel served a warrant on a Cynthiana man Monday following an earlier pursuit by the Cynthiana Police Department.
Cynthiana Ptl. Nathan Linville attempted to make a traffic stop on Brandon Pennington, 25, who was driving a 2002 Camaro, about 12:30 a.m. on Pleasant Street.
With speeds between 45 and 75 mph hour, the pursuit left Cynthiana on White Oak Pike.

the roadway, but that he was able to get back on the road.
At Rocky Springs Road, Linville's supervisor Sgt. Tim Wells, terminated the pursuit.
Later that night, Tpr. Gabriel served the warrants for fourth degree assault, domestic violence, minor injury, operating motor vehicle with expired operator's license, first degree fleeing or evading police (motor vehicle), and first degree wanton endangerment (police officer).
When police arrested Pennington, they also arrested Melissa Koutz, 21, charging her with hindering prosecution or apprehension.
According to Harrison County Sheriff's Deputy Tuan Kreer, Pennington was found hiding in the bushes at a residence on Sycamore Drive.
Kreer said Koutz picked up Pennington on Fourth Street and drove him to White Oak Subdivision while police were attempting to locate him to serve the warrants.
Koutz allegedly told authorities that she did not know the location of Pennington.

Guilty

Vaughn were both previous girlfriends of Webb.
Vaughn went missing in December 2003. Her body was found last year in a shallow grave in Bath County.
Tom Griffiths, attorney for Webb, said Wednesday following the plea that all parties had signed off on the agreement, including the victim's family.
"Everybody involved in this wanted this trial over with," Griffiths said from the Pendleton County Justice Center.
Griffiths said that Webb's parents were subpoenaed as were Bryia's two children who were at home at the time of the murder.
"Our client's parents, it's been real tough on them," Griffiths said, adding that Webb also wanted to call a halt to the trial to avoid having the children testify.

"It's good to know it's behind us instead of wandering if he'd be able to get away with it," said Dora Clair, Runiewicz's mother. "You never know how a jury trial will go."
Clair said she was concerned about the two small girls having to testify as well. Because Clair and her immediate family had been subpoenaed, they would have been banned from the courtroom during the trial.
Since the girls, Madyson and Morgan, both 11, would be testifying they would be kept separate from the rest of their family.
"Who would've been there to support them?" Clair worried.
"The only decent thing he did was take the plea deal," said Scott Darr, Runiewicz's brother, who predicted that Webb would die in prison.

"I hope he goes to sleep and the devil comes up and gets him," said a visibly shaken DeeDee Wilson, Runiewicz's sister.
As part of the plea agreement, Clair said Webb is ordered to write a statement regarding the events that lead up to the murder and to explain why he took the life of his former girlfriend.
Clair speculated that her daughter was sleeping.
"She was well trained in self defense," Clair said. "I always thought she was safe because she knew so much."
A memorial prayer vigil will be held at Mt. Carmel Christian Church from 6 to 8 p.m. on Tuesday, July 31, in honor of Runiewicz.

Berries

Varney said he shares his berries with his family and neighbors, but doesn't sell the berries or the jams or jellies. He will even cut off a stem for friends to bury over the winter to start their own plant the next year.
He said his neighbor recently made a cobbler with blackberries and plans to make another.
Additionally, he said he doesn't sell the eggs his 40 chickens lay. He gives those away, too.
"The Lord blessed us and we just give them away," Varney said.
He likes to share the berries with his four grandchildren and two pugs. He said his grandchildren love the raspberries the best.

Varney said he doesn't use any fertilizer or pesticides on the berries. The secret to the large berries might lie in the soil they are planted in. He said a friend of his brought him two loads of black dirt from a horse park years back that he uses to grow the berries.
Earlier in the summer he noticed that many of his berries were dry and shriveled by the sun so he decided to try something new. He placed sheets over the berries to protect them from the sun. And it worked.
Varney will show you the stark difference between the berries that he covered and the ones that were fried by the sun.

Since covering them he has grown blackberries as big as an inch and a half and raspberries as big as a dime.
"I've never seen them that big," Varney said. "The good Lord has just blessed them."
He said he picks berries every two days and gets about a gallon and a half each time.
He isn't sure what type of blackberries they are, he says they are just brar-less blackberries that he ordered from Gurneys to plant and grow.

Intern leaves Cynthiana with experience for the future

Journalism is a learning experience. One of the reasons why I think I enjoy journalism so much is because of the opportunities it gives me to learn about so many different things quickly that I never thought I would know how to do.

By coming to work at the Cynthiana Democrat in Cynthiana, a town I had never visited previously, I have learned more about not only the town and the things that are important to a small town, but I have learned about all of the different people that make up the town.

I have been inspired by people I've interviewed who have done so much with their lives, making me want to do more with mine. I have met owners of tanning salons, dental centers, quilt shops and restaurants and interviewed authors, pastors, baseball greats and more.

Kristie Hamon

Additionally, I have learned how to raise blackberries, how to fix a dam, how a speech competition works and how to cover a city commission meeting.

I have truly had a fun, enjoyable experience throughout the 10 weeks I have worked in Cynthiana.

I have seen firsthand that news of a new store or of large blackberries can be just as important as news of a crime. I have had more fun writing features about fun things in Cynthiana than I ever have had writing about a wreck or body found in a river.

The hard news can be difficult to report on sometimes but getting to write about the positive things going on in the world has given me more hope for my future in journalism and given me a more positive outlook of the world. There is just as much good news to be told as there is bad news.

Cynthiana is a small town that is very loyal to the people who live here. Everyone I have talked to has been concerned with keeping jobs in Cynthiana and helping the people who work here and the locally owned shops. While I feel other places around Kentucky would agree, I have never been somewhere where I truly got the feeling that it mattered and that everything they did centered on that.

You get the feeling that you matter when you're in Cynthiana. You're not just another face on the street. People know who you are and how to tell visitors how to get to your house or shop. The people of Cynthiana have made me feel so welcome and at home. I will be sad to leave Cynthiana.

Work wise, I really enjoyed having time to work on each story instead of cranking one out as soon as possible and moving to the next thing. I learned the importance of going to meet someone for an interview instead of making a quick phone call to get the information. I feel like it means more to the person you are interviewing and you have more accountability as well as a better sense of what the story means to the people involved.

From the internship I had last summer and this one, I have learned there are many different types of newspapers and what you learn at one, isn't necessarily what you need to expect at another. It depends a lot on the town. You just have to find the fit that's right for you.

Thanks for all the community support

To the editor:

It is an honor to follow Mike Reitz as head coach of the Thorobred basketball program. I'm optimistic about the upcoming basketball season. We recently completed a youth basketball camp and we entertained a total of 91 future Thorobred campers during the week. Community involvement enhanced our week.

Hometown Pharmacy outfitted campers with a T-shirt and basketball. Movie Warehouse donated a free movie rental, Leono's donated personal pizza, and all campers received a ticket for free admission to our first home boy's varsity basketball game (Nov. 30 vs. Saint Henry High School).

In addition to those businesses mentioned above, a thank-you also goes out to McDonald's, sponsor of the "ICE CREAM CONE" shot and to Chase Jewelers for the donation of University of Kentucky memorabilia.

My gratitude is also expressed to our community, who encouraged their children and grandchildren to attend camp. Relationships were formed between elementary-aged children and our high school players. High school players were "coaches/mentors" to the young ones.

The efforts of long time supporters of Harrison County basketball are also appreciated (John Dawson, Joe Nichols, Larry White, Rodney Persinger, Katie Kendall) and the 2012-13 Breds Coaching Staff: Jamie Case, Jason Crisp and Stephen Moses.

My congratulations to Coach Mike Reitz with his recent retirement as boys' head coach at Harrison County High School. Mike is the winningest coach in Harrison County basketball history and has been a quality teacher, head coach, and (most importantly) person. We plan to continue his legacy this fall.

Director says Wedco was prepared for forecasted cuts

By BEN HYATT, News Writer
After heavy anticipation of rocky roads ahead, Wedco says health department cuts are still a ways away from affecting services offered.
According to Wedco Public Health Director Crystal Caudill-Miller, changes were made in spending after expected cuts from health care funding were anticipated. "Four years ago when I first got here I knew what the future had in store for health department funding," explained Caudill-Miller. "We immediately set-out to build our reserves to their fullest potential in an effort to be ready for what is now."

Caudill-Miller said several departments like Wedco across the state are now feeling the effects of tighter budgets in the state and at the federal level.
"We are budgeted by federal and state money however, it is all filtered through the state," explained Caudill-Miller. "Along with cuts in the state, Manager Care Organizations or MCO's, are taking forever and a day to reimburse for services that we offer here."

Along with problems in loss of funding, Caudill-Miller also said that the amount of retirement being paid is significantly higher than it was four years ago.

"Over $1 million is taken off the top for paying retirement," said Caudill-Miller. "$1 million will buy a lot of supplies that we need."
Caudill-Miller also explained that the number of staff at Wedco has dropped from 110 staff members to approximately 85 in the past four years.
"Luckily I have not had to let many people go," said Caudill-Miller. "If someone has retired in the past four years, their job was not replaced."

Despite all the challenges that continue to bombard health departments, Caudill-Miller said she is still hopeful that Wedco will be able to pull-through all the hardships and still offer all the services to the community.
"We have cut everything we possibly can for right now, but we are still going to offer all the services," said Caudill-Miller. "Some months we have to dip into the reserve but if that is what it takes to keep us going then we will continue to do so until it is no longer there."

Caudill-Miller said that evaluations will be conducted each year, to look at all services and how much each one is needed and utilized.

Minor damages reported as a result of recent straight-line winds

By KRISTIE HAMON, Summer Intern
Even with recent storms following the extreme heat, Doug Hampton, insurance agent with Palmer-Hampton, said there hasn't been very much reported damage. "Just a lot of wind claims," Hampton said.
The majority of reported damage is from strong, straight-line winds, he said.
Hampton said wind damage is routine in nature but has been more frequent recently.
"A lot of wind claims are rare during the summer," Hampton said.
He said wind damage is more common in the spring during tornado season.

"The wind can do crazy things," Hampton said.

Other than some normal barn roof damage from recent storms, the most damage he has heard of recently happened at his own church.

The wind blew a tree branch into a window at the Republican Christian Church, classifying it as a wind claim.

Betty Marshall, an elder at Republican

Doug Hampton

Christian Church, said they are going to have to spend more than $600 to fix half of a window that was cracked by a limb during the storms a few weeks ago.

"We really don't know for sure that the storm did it," Gary Philpott, trustee at the church said.

"We didn't see it," Marshall said.

But she said there was a big limb laying under the window next to the building after the storm.

The outer window of the minister's study was broken, sparing the stained glass.

"The wind can blow hard through here," Marshall said.

Hampton gave some advice for property owners with storm damage.

"The number one thing would be to notify their agent as quickly as possible," Hampton said.

He said then the best thing to do is prevent any more damage from accumulating.

For example, property owners can cover a hole in the roof with a tarp so that the rain doesn't additionally cause water damage.

"Do anything they can to prevent any further damage," Hampton said.

Hampton said his insurance agency insures homes, businesses, churches, libraries, barns and more.

Berry woman faces three charges

By BEN HYATT, News Writer
A Berry woman now faces charges after she allegedly forced her way into a home and assaulted a neighbor.

According to Harrison County Sheriff's Deputy Tuan Kreer, a two-hour search began at 11:01 p.m., Monday, July 23, for a woman wanted for questioning in an altercation that took place on First Street, Berry.

"We received a call from Darlene Moore, saying that she was assaulted inside her home by a neighbor," said Kreer. "When I arrived, I was met by several neighbors saying that the woman who started the altercation was hiding under the bridge in Berry."

According to Kreer, Loretta Spear, 29, allegedly came to Moore's residence while intoxicated and entered the home without permission.

"According to Moore and her neighbors, Loretta was warned several times to leave the home and refused to," explained Kreer. "Loretta then allegedly shoved Mrs. Moore inside the home and told her that she did not have to leave if she did not want to."

Kreer said the altercation eventually made its way into the front yard, where several other neighbors were able to separate the two women before Spear took off on foot.

Once authorities arrived, Kreer said Spear tried to keep away from police by hiding under the bridge before circling around and hiding under the front porch of her home.

"I eventually made my way back to Loretta's home after several people saw her entering the home and found her locked inside her bedroom," said Kreer.

Kreer said Spear allegedly admitted to hiding under the bridge to keep from being found.

"She also left her children with a 19-year-old neighbor during the entire incident," said Kreer. "She claimed that she did not abandon them because she could see and hear them from underneath her porch."

According to Kreer, Spear agreed to submit to a PBT test, where she registered a .158 reading.

Spear was charged with second degree burglary, third degree criminal trespassing and fourth degree assault.

Spear was booked and lodged in Bourbon county Detention Center.

As of press-time, Spear was not listed as an inmate of Bourbon County Detention Center.

Local governments agree to help buy new playground equipment

By KRISTIE HAMON SUMMER INTERN

Commissioners voted to give $10,500 to Rev. Ross Park for playground equipment at Tuesday's City Commission meeting.

Lois Gross presented the request and said they have received $3,000 from the recreation board and $4,000 from Healthy Communities and plan to ask the county for $10,500.

"We do not hold a big bank account," Gross said. "We do what we got to do."

She said the amount they have asked for does not include installation or transportation of the equipment.

In other matters, environment inspection asbestos testing was completed at parcel 15-3/5 of the westside redevelopment project as part of the community development block grant fund.

•A draft was made of the no-smoking ordinance, which commissioners decided to review on their own and discuss it at the next meeting.

•During the public property and finance report, commissioner Billy Grayson said City Hall Gym is coming along well and that they should be painting soon.

"I'm real pleased with it," Grayson said.

He said he would also like to recognize the workers and committee that helped put A. Keller Dam together.

He said the dam is not Niagara Falls, but it is fixed.

"The dam itself is stronger and better than it's ever been in my opinion," Grayson said. "We do have a good strong dam."

•During the public safety report, commissioners voted to fill the vacancy of Josh Carter in the police department who resigned recently.

Additionally, the board voted to offer employment to two police officer recruits. They also voted to advertise for a part-time 911 telecommunicator position.

•During the public works report, commissioner Roger Slade said they are getting the street plan ready for the streets needed to be blacktopped.

"We don't want to cover it if we know we are going to dig it up," Slade said.

Slade said "An Evening with the Arts" is Friday, July 27, from 6 p.m. to around 11 p.m. He said they are in the process of cleaning up downtown for the event and said there will be some street closings.

"Hopefully the weather cooperates," Slade said. "It's going to be a big event. (I) hope to see a lot of people there."

•During the public utilities report, commissioner Jack Keith commented on the high gas prices in Cynthiana compared to the surrounding areas.

"We're paying more for gas than anybody else in the area," Keith said.

"I think there's a missed opportunity there," Bruner said.

Additionally, commissioners declared 15,000 linear feet of 20 inch HDPE pipe as surplus. The surplus pipe ran from the old waste water treatment plant to A. Keller Dam. The commissioners voted to advertise for someone to retrieve it.

Finally, commissioners went into executive session for a litigation session and returned to say nothing was decided.

The Harrison County Fiscal Court agreed to help with the purchase of new playground equipment for Rev. Ross Park.

Members of the Rev. Ross Park committee were present at the Harrison County Fiscal Court meeting to ask for help in purchasing a $27,000 playground set.

"I personally know that the equipment at Rev. Ross Park is very outdated and in most cases not safe for children to be playing on," said magistrate Paula Taylor. "The children in that area have the right to have something nice to play on."

Members of the park committee informed the court that $10,500 was being asked from both the city and county.

"We plan on doing some fundraisers to help cover additional costs after the equipment is in place," said Brian Williams. "The city has agreed to donate $10,500 and there is a private donation of $7,000 that we will be receiving."

A motion was made by magistrate Taylor to fund up to $10,500 for the purchase of the new equipment. Motion passed.

During the farm and facility report, magistrate Bradley Copes told the court that plans were being made to remodel the main level bathroom in the old courthouse.

"As we discussed in the last meeting, we wanted to see about making the main floor bathroom into two different bathrooms and make them handicap friendly," explained Copes. "I had someone look at the bathroom and it is a possibility if we want to pursue it."

A motion was made to prepare a bid packet for the renovation project. Motion passed.

Two additional motions were made, one of which was to appoint Doug McCarty as a jailer transportation officer and to appoint magistrates William Fritz and Copes to the five year solid waste plan committee.

Both motions passed.

HCHS BAND ALUMNI

Band! Atten-hut! The fourth annual reunion of the Harrison County Band Alumni will take place this Saturday at the Rohs Opera House from 2:30-5 p.m. All current and former band members should dust off their instruments and pull out their tattered school song music as the event will kick off with off with a rowdy rendition of the HCHS Fight Song.

There will not be a meal this year, but the Rohs Opera House will have their concession stand open during the reunion.

Having the reunion at the Rohs Opera House will allow us to screen a selection of marching band shows beginning with the 1970's and culminating with last season's "Around the Horn." Reunion organizers have been working to dig up the best surviving footage from past decades, and seeing the old shows on the big screen should bring back lots of old memories.

One of the goals of this event is to raise funds for the Robert E. Gregg Scholarship, which helps support college students from Harrison County who choose to enter the field of music. Several students have benefited from this scholarship, and we hope to see it continue. A silent auction will be set up in the foyer, and many folks have donated items. It addition, "Battle of the Band" bags will be set out, allowing former members from each decade to contribute to the Alumni Reunion Fund. If you would like to donate an item to the silent auction, contact Betsy Brannock Smith at 235-0225.

So many of us have powerful memories from our time in band. Please take the opportunity to relive them this Saturday.

MUSEUM MUSINGS

* It seems incredible that 18 years ago this July a small group of dedicated volunteers (several of whom are still diligently working for the museum) opened the Cynthiana-Harrison County Museum for this special community. There were only a few things on display at that July, 1994 opening compared to the current collection of 2,000+ items.

* As we strive to preserve and share the history of Cynthiana and Harrison County, we volunteers urge you and yours to visit the museum in the wonderful 1920's Rohs Theatre Building on Walnut Street. The museum is open on Fridays and Saturdays, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. No charge for admission.

* We are confident that you will discover something of interest. All citizens need to ponder the military section. Other displays focus on schools, medical, agriculture, Native Americans, homemaking, religion, nature, music, transportation, clothing, sports, industry, toys, etc.

* Arts is an integral part of the museum. Among visitors' favorites are the models crafted by local artisans (Harold Slade, Donald Hill, Joe Pawley, Neville Haley, Carl Blackburn, Bruce Mitchell). Amazing creations!

* Original paintings (oil, watercolor, pen and pencil) by artists with local connections are displayed throughout the building as well as numerous photographs. Among those artists are Robert Poindexter, Herbert Allen Moore, Harold Barnett, Joanie Gruelle Wannamaker, Alvan Berry, Art Lowry, Otis Tussey, and Jane Sugg Gaffin.

* Thanks so much to the support of the community. This column "Museum Musings" and other related articles have been published by The Cynthiana Democrat for 18 years. WCYN radio has broadcast numerous museum programs. This Friday, July 27 "Coffee Break" hosts will visit the museum in celebration of the 18th anniversary. The city, county, various organizations and citizens have been vital in helping a group of dedicated volunteers move ever onward to maintain the museum and preserve and share our history.

Please come visit the museum and bring family and friends. Join us!

Middle Age Dilemma: Caring for your kids, your parents and yourself

By CHERYL CASE, Co. EXT. AGENT

Many middle-aged adults are finding themselves caring and supporting two generations- their children and their aging parents. While caregiving can be very rewarding, it often can bring additional emotional, physical and financial stresses for caregivers as they try to balance a career, parenting and elder care.

According to the Family Caregiver Alliance, 520,000 Kentucky informal caregivers provide 570 million hours of care each year. The estimated value of this care is worth more than $5.4 billion. This support is most often geared toward seniors by middle-aged daughters, who are balancing a full-time job on top of their other daily responsibilities.

Here are a few tips for handling the physical and emotional stresses related to caregiving:

- Recognize how you handle stress and what is stressing you. Put your stressors into perspective and make time for what is really important.

- Remember you also need to take care of yourself.

- Take physical and emotional breaks from caregiving, such as going for a walk or reading a book.

- Ask for help, including professional support.

- Remember that the example you set by handling your stress is a model for the rest of your family.

Reducing financial stress requires honesty between all parties involved in the caregiving process (your parents, your children and yourself). You should analyze your financial situation and be honest with your parents about how much financial support you can provide to them now and in the future. Your parents need to be honest with you about their monthly expenses.

Reviewing your parents' expenses may help you find ways where they can cut costs, such as buying generic products, seeking government assistance or moving in together to share monthly expenses. You should be honest with your children about the effects of caring for your aging parents and make sure they know as your children their needs come first. You may also want to seek support and advice from geriatric care managers, elder care lawyers and financial planners.

More information on caregiving is also available at the Harrison County Cooperative Extension Service. Additional online resources for caregivers include AARP's website www.aarp.org and extension's Family Caregiving website www.extension.org/family\_caregiving.

First United Methodist Church to host a Back-to-School Celebration

By KRISTIE HAMON, SUMMER INTERN

The First United Methodist Church will be hosting its first Back-to-School Celebration on Aug. 1.

The celebration is designed to collect resources for students headed back to school who need assistance with these things.

Pastor Mike Coppersmith said the Harrison County Board of Education is supplying school supplies for students but they aren't able to supply family resources like underwear and socks.

The celebration begins at 5 p.m. in the church parking lot and will feature a variety of activities. There will be inflatables, corn-hole, and various other games including a clothes relay.

Additionally, there will be hot dogs and drinks as well as prayers offered for teachers and bus drivers.

"It's supplying a need in the community for anybody who needs it," Coppersmith said.

Admission to the celebration is the donation of new underwear or socks in their original package.

"Of course we won't turn anybody away," Coppersmith said.

Coppersmith said the event is open to everyone.

"For the whole community," Coppersmith said. "It's an opportunity for us to help our kids of Harrison County. An opportunity for fun fellowship and an opportunity to join together and pray."

He said there is a group at the church called C.I.A., which stands for church in action, with Christians in action for Christ in action. Members have name badges.

"It's kind of neat when you can say 'I'm with the C.I.A.'" Coppersmith said.

The group of about 135 people, has been working on a program called "Clean it All," making laundry detergent to give away to the needy.

"We know people are struggling," Coppersmith said. "Laundry detergent is expensive."

He said they have made more than 100 bottles of laundry detergents since starting two months ago.

"We've made a lot since we started doing it," Coppersmith said.

The C.I.A. members will be at the Back-to-School Celebration giving out laundry detergent and other services.

They meet Wednesdays at 6 p.m. and break into classes for young adults and senior adults.

Coppersmith said the church bus will pick people up for C.I.A. and church service.

He said they have even donated detergent to God's Food Pantry for distribution.

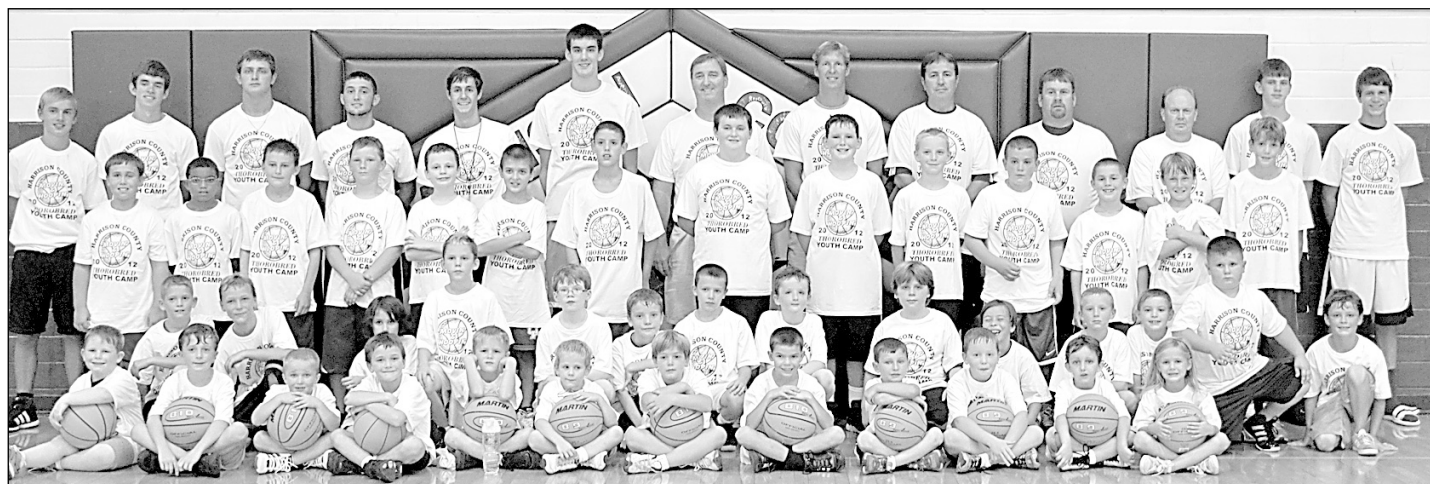

"We're trying to be creative and do what we can do to help," Coppersmith said.

He said the church does acts of love to meet needs.

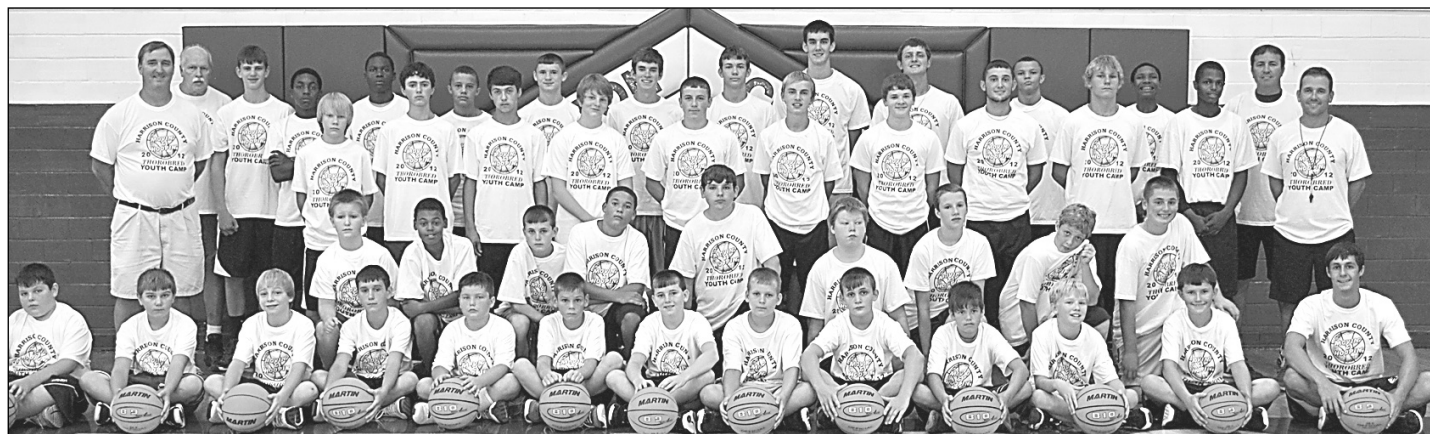

"I think that's what the church is for," Coppersmith said. "To reach out in the community. That's just part of being in the family of God."

Local fabric store celebrates fifth anniversary

By KRISTIE HAMON, SUMMER INTERN
Purr-sonally Yours quilt and fabric shop celebrated its five-year anniversary at the end of June.

The shop is owned by Diane and Mark McClain, who also own Radio Shack.

Diane McClain said a few things have changed since they first opened. She said they started as an embroidery shop and changed to a full fabric and quilt shop.

McClain said they have even had to expand to the back of Radio Shack.

The McClains opened the store in the Harrison Square five years ago because they had the space available at the time.

Store hours are Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.

The name of the store, Purr-sonally Yours was inspired by McClain's love of cats. She said customers have started calling the shop P.Y. Fabrics for short.

"We love cats that's why we did it," McClain said.

She said she will help customers coordinate their fabrics when they come to the store and said one lady once asked her to entirely pick the colors and fabric for her project.

McClain also teaches basic quilting and sewing classes and offers sewing machine repair.

"Our goal is to add more classes," McClain said. "We hope we can get it really, really going, where it's regular."

She said any one interested should contact her for more information to have their name added to the list.

She said the art of quilting is still alive and well.

"A lot of people quilt and a lot of new people are wanting to learn," McClain said.

She is a member of quilt guilds and does demonstrations from time to time and said she would like to start attending quilt

Jenkins enters her 8th season with 7 returning starters

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

It only seems like yesterday for Coach Kim Jenkins when she began to coach the Harrison County Fillies Soccer program, but it was actually eight years ago.

“Time really flies when you are busy coaching, but I have enjoyed every minute of it,” she said as she recalled the years.

This year may be easier to remember and more fun to recall as she greets a huge group of players and seven returning starters to the LeBus Field practices.

“We have 42 girls out for soccer from middle school through high school,” Jenkins happily noted. “This is wonderful for our program to continue the success we have going.”

Jenkins will have to replace her entire defense from last year as Katlynn Horschler, Sara Jenkins, Andrea Livingood and Nikki Taylor graduated leaving four vacancies.

The Fillies’ coaching staff has veteran replacements in mind, but they will lack the varsity experience last year’s senior group possessed.

If the season started today, Jenkins has a lineup in place, but she emphasized that things can change.

“We have two scrimmages and several practice sessions to go through before we can settle on a line up,” she admitted. “We have several girls who could step up and earn some time. We do have some really good speed and good strong athletes.”

Seniors Johnna Marshall and Randi Schweitzer return as two starters back for their swan song. Marshall plays a forward position while the tough, hard-nosed Schweitzer is positioned at mid field.

Speed is the by word for the junior returners as two of the faster girls on the team, Haley Carr and Taylor Fry, have the swiftness and endurance to run with the best of the competition.

Carr will join Schweitzer at mid field while Fry moves to the defense to shore up that area.

Fry played defense on the select team she plays with in the summer and has shown the aptitude for this position.

The big question mark right now for the Fillies is the return of junior Marly Jenkins. Jenkins went down last season with a serious knee injury and is returning following surgery.

She, like Fry, will play defense and is a key to the Fillies plan of success.

Other veteran juniors returning who should find significant playing time are Jaclyn Fryman, Madison Dixon and Madelyn Judy. Junior Elizabeth Brooks also joins the team for her first year and could come around as the year progresses.

The sophomore class has two starters returning after playing a lot of minutes last year as freshman.

Speedsters Morgan Puckett and Hannah Thomas contribute to what Jenkins refers to as one of the fastest teams we have had here at Harrison County. Puckett is penciled in on defense while Thomas figures to start at a forward slot.

“Injuries are the key,” said Jenkins. “We have a good, solid group, but we do not have a lot of varsity experience after the seven returning starters. We need to stay healthy and if we do we should be in the running for the region.”

The Fillies are in a new district this year joining Mason County, Pendleton County and St. Patrick in Region 10, District 38.

The other teams in the 10th Region are, in District 37 Bishop Brossart, Calvary Christian, Campbell County, and Scott High with District 39 consisting of Bourbon County, George Rogers Clark, Montgomery County and Paris.

“We changed our schedule this year a little to play more of the northern Kentucky schools,” admitted Jenkins. “With the new district alignment, we need to be ready to compete with the top schools.”

The Fillies open with an early scrimmage on Aug. 7 at LeBus Field with Mason County.

The Carr Era begins as football practice is in full swing

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

After one week of practice the Harrison County Thorobreds football players are fully aware that a new sheriff is in town.

“When we played football when I was in school we were not the most talented group,” admitted Coach Jim Carr. “But we were in the best shape and won games in the fourth quarter. We will be in better shape than our opponent in 2012.”

Carr played for Fred Mariani, whose teams had modest success from 1977-79 without great talent and learned what being in good condition meant in determining wins and losses.

Last weekend featured the varsity camping in the Southside gym with a minimum of three coaches staying over each night.

“We practiced as much as the temperature and the KHSAA rules allowed and really began to improve by Sunday afternoon. The “camp out” began at 2 p.m. on Friday and ended at 5 p.m. on Sunday including a church service at 10 a.m. on Sunday morning.

Some of the players had air mattresses and some only sleeping bags as they slept on the wrestling mats in the old gym.

“We are coming together as a team,” noted Carr. “Some were concerned about individuals who did not come out or that have quit from last year. We explained to the players that our focus and efforts are on the ones who stayed. We knew that some would not want to stay with us, but that we are concerned about those who have stayed.”

There is a solid nucleus of players back on the Hilltop for the 2012 season.

Five seniors lead the way most or all of whom started at one time or another last year. Kicker Dan Klapheke returns to handle the field goals and extra points and may play more than that this time. Hard-nosed players Derrick Hurst, Clay Jones and Robert Pawley will fill holes on the line as well as in the backfield and tight end/ defensive back Eli Gross returns to give those positions a solid performer. Gross has matured into a “physical specimen” and has the potential to really cause people to sit up and take notice.

Quarterback is the deepest position currently for the Thorobreds.

Junior Zach Royce returns stronger and more determined to lead the offense in the 2012 season. Royce is also penciled in as a defensive end which would be an unusual combination but one that shows his strength and versatility.

Sophomores Robbie Stroub and Alex Kinsey give the Breds very capable back up at quarterback if Royce goes down.

Stroub, who will play at wide receiver, is a student of the game and a real leader.

Carr has noticed that Stroub has a coach on the field mentality and has been into the playbook with some of the other players in extra skull sessions.

Kinsey will also play at linebacker to take advantage of his athleticism and knowledge of the game.

The junior class has many of the key linemen who will have to block the way to any Breds success.

John Van Hook will be at center with Kyle Marsh and Shawn Wallin holding down guard and/or tackle positions along with Bobby Cutshaw and Harley Bruin.

Big Dominic Walker is counted on at right tackle with Spencer Covington also playing an important role on the line.

Tyler Motell will back up Gross at tight end and also operate the end on

MIKE’S MINUTE

Be true to your school and a special hole in one

The Beach Boys in the 60s sang a song about cruising around town with their letter sweaters on and the school decal on the car showing everyone who could see that they were “number one in the state.”

They, of course, were referencing their school being better than the others in town since they grew up in metropolitan Los Angeles where there are multiple schools.

We in Harrison County have only one school to be true to and that is good old Harrison County High School.

Granted many of us did not attend HCHS nor did we graduate as a Thorobred or a Fillie.

My wife and I both graduated from high schools in Indiana, but as we speak Harrison County is our high school.

I still wear some Tell City Marksmen garb, but we are backers of the Thorobreds and Fillies and now since I have retired from officiating football we may be able to go to a game together.

The point to all of this is that since we each have one school to “be true to,” we need to do a better job of it.

There are going to be many things that a school system will do over the course of the school year or the time a particular student is enrolled that a parent may not completely agree with, but we need to keep the big picture in front of us.

Football, cross country and soccer are all beginning and these young people need your support.

The school system provides much of the equipment and some of the costs involved in competing in each of the sports, but the student athlete and their parents are also responsible for a great portion of the overall expense.

We are all familiar with car washes, candy sales, popcorn sales and much more that the young people busy themselves with in order to provide the transportation to the games and other parts of the team budgets.

Also, let’s not forget the cheerleaders. They also have to raise money to compete in the national and state competitions that they are in each year.

For the most part, our teams are highly successful in wins and losses as well as how they conduct themselves on and off the field.

This really, while we are all glad it’s true, doesn’t have much to do with the costs of operating the teams or the fund raising ability of each squad.

The more successful programs do raise money easier but they are also more in demand and go to more tournaments with more costs involved, so it all about evens up.

So let’s get behind our youth in this tough economic time and help them in every way we can.

Sure it is annoying to have young ones going door-to-door or for your own kids to bring home pies or popcorn to sell, but that is simply the way it is.

There are many stories on the national news outlets about school systems who are dropping this sport or that sport due to lack of funds.

The fewer sports there are the more delinquency there is, pure and simple.

Most of the time, when an athlete makes his or her best grades and gets in less, if any, trouble is when they are playing a sport.

Middle School Football Camp marks beginning of 2012 season

By Mike Aldridge, Sports Writer

More than 65 middle school boys turned out Monday for the kick off to the season, the Harrison County Middle School Football Camp.

The coaching staff, six of whom are new, greeted the players to begin workouts for the three-day camp.

The heat index was a problem on Monday as it was at 105 degrees, which prevents workouts of any kind.

After a few minutes, the index dropped below 105 and the workouts began in earnest.

The new coaching staff begins with the head coach of the HCMS program, Terry McMillan.

McMillan will be the offensive coach for the eighth grade team with assistants Zach and Brad Ewalt, Randy Ritchie, and Sean Espinola.

The Ewals and Ritchie will coach the linemen for both the seventh and eighth grade teams.

Espinola will coach the special teams for both teams and the receivers and defensive backs for the eighth grade squad.

The other new coach, Chris Kerns, will handle the defense for the eighth grade as well as serve as the number one assistant to McMillan.

Kerns is a 2001 graduate of Harrison County and a graduate of Morehead State University.

The seventh grade coaches remain the same with Eric Reed and Randolph Thomas continuing to prepare the younger middle school students for football at the higher levels.

Coach Kerns expressed the feelings of the coaching staff in a Tuesday interview. “We are very excited about the number of students out for the camp. I believe this shows that football is creating excitement with Coach Carr taking over the high school program,” he surmised. “We have a middle school staff that is made up of men who played at Harrison County for the most part and who know what it takes to be successful. Our goal is to keep these players enthused and excited about playing football in Harrison County.”

Kerns and the other assistants all played for Coach Ray Graham while at Harrison County during some of the better years of the program.

Kerns went on to say that he and the staff realize that to play with the northern Kentucky schools the Thorobreds will have to have the school’s best athletes on the field.

“We compete in baseball and most of the other sports with Highlands and the like so we can do it in football,” he noted. “But it will take everyone on the same page and the best athletes that we have committed to do it in football.”

The season begins on Aug. 18, the same day of the Hometown Pharmacy/Thorobreds Bowl in an early afternoon game with Rowan County played at Bourbon County.

This is followed by another bowl-type game on Aug. 25 at Nicholas County where the Colts will face Fleming County Middle School. Sept. 6 begins three straight home games for the Colts in a schedule that has four home games in all. The playoffs are scheduled to begin Oct. 16 so the next few months will be very busy for the Harrison County Middle School youth.

“This is a tough schedule but one that will prepare us to do what we need to when we become Thorobreds,” concluded Kerns. “We need to keep the numbers up and the Breds will be just fine.”

Practice begins on Monday, July 30, for the middle school players at 5:30 p.m.

Breds

double tight end sets.

The junior linemen each were mentioned in the group that Carr thought showed great improvement as the “camp-out weekend” progressed.

The junior class also has the fastest of the Breds for the 2012 season.

Wide receiver/defensive back Justin Hunter and running back/defensive back Deshon Talbott are the swiftest of the stable of receivers and backs which are on the Hilltop this fall. Talbott is improving daily on his ability to hit the hole quickly and then take advantage of his deceptiveness on foot.

Brandon Morris and Kevin Brossart will also carry the ball for the Breds. Brossart is a transfer from Dixie Heights and likes to hit people. He will also see time at the defensive end position.

Morris will fill in at one of the linebacker positions.

A “hard nosed” Cody Anderson will play at defensive back and tall, swift, Mason Ritchie will play at defensive back and wide receiver to round out the deep, skillful junior class.

Other than Kinsey and Stroub, speedster Terrell Roberts will represent the sophomore class in seeing varsity playing time the way it stacks up right now.

Carr emphasized that all of the positions and playing time is still yet to be determined depending on how practice and scrimmages work out.

The only scrimmage set right now is on Aug. 10 when the Breds travel to Grant County for a three-way with the host Braves and East Jessamine.

Grant County is coached by former Bracken County coach Kevin Siple, who was a teammate of Carr’s at Georgetown College.

The Maroon/White game is yet to be locked down but will be announced soon.

The coaching staff is very similar to last year but assignments are changed from previous years.

Carr is happy with the assistant coaches’ willingness to roll into the different system. Jimbo Stroub will be the offensive coordinator with Terry McMillan helping with the quarter-

Fillies

From FILLIES page 13

They travel the next Saturday to Frankfort to face Franklin County before opening the season at home on Aug. 13 with a good Anderson County team.

The Fillies will play a limited schedule at LeBus Field with the middle part of the home season being played the Athletic Complex.

"This is a tough schedule, but we have to prepare for the region and farther," remarked Jenkins. "This team has some good potential with great chemistry right now and we must be ready to advance when the tournament comes."

Column

From COLUMN page 13

There is a golf scramble on Saturday with the proceeds going to the football boosters. Football is really expensive to conduct with the number of travelers, the distance they have to go and the cost of equipment.

Any help that a Harrison County booster can give is greatly appreciated.

A couple of other notes about important happenings. Doug Hampton's hole in one during The Jungle was a very special moment for him.

Any hole in one is great, but to have one playing with your son in a tournament that you sponsor in memory of a great friend makes it even more so.

Doug even hit a hook like Jim would have hit to score the ace.

Now that is a monumental event. Penn State took Joe Paterno's statue down and the NCAA put the hammer down with penalties and fines.

The current players or head coach does not deserve this, but the people involved in the cover up, including Paterno sure did. Unfortunately, no penalty could change the awful and sickening action of the Penn State football program that led to this.

Dividing plants helps improve health, bloom

We have all asked the question “Why hasn’t my plant bloomed?” Sometimes the answer is as simple as not enough sunlight, not old enough, not cold enough or hot enough, etc.

In fact, it could be as simple as a little digging and dividing for some renewed blooming attitude.

For most of my herbaceous perennials I wait until early fall to do a good portion of my digging and dividing.

The advantages include the fact that the new divisions have a chance to develop new roots in cooler weather; and roots are established before the plant goes dormant for the winter.

By the following spring, the plant’s root system is in fine shape and the new growth will be pristine.

In my experience spring digging and dividing usually results in an unkempt appearance.

Jeneen Wiche
Columnist

For other plants, mid-summer digging and dividing is better. This includes bearded iris, which benefit a great deal from dividing every three years or so.

If they receive adequate sunlight (at least six hours a day) but do not bloom well then the rhizomes are likely getting over crowded.

Summer is the best time to tackle the chore because iris go through a dormant period beginning in July.

The best way to approach the task is with a pitchfork, lifting the iris rhizomes (roots) off the top of the soil where they grow.

Once you have them out sort through them, discarding the older rhizomes and saving the lighter-colored young rhizomes that are growing off their sides.

While you are sorting and separating you may also notice that some bulbs are mushy or rotting.

If holes are present in the rhizomes then the iris borer has already made its way, burrowing through the foliage, to the rhizome. This black-headed, pink grub is the larval stage of a brown to black moth. The moth lays its eggs on the iris foliage starting in the summer and continuing through until fall. Next spring the pink grubs appear and chew their way into the foliage, down through the stems and into the rhizome of the plant. The grubs feed on the rhizome until they hatch into moths and the cycle starts again.

For future control inspect the iris foliage in late spring and early summer. Remove any leaves that begin to die out and look for holes in the foliage. Split the leaf blade open and you will see the thin larval stage of the grub burrowing through the leaf (the goal of the larva is to feed on the leaf as it journeys to the rhizome, once to the rhizome the grub stage has the real meal). This proves to be easier and more effective as a control because pesticide treatments have to be timed just right in the spring before the moths lays its eggs on the foliage.

Once you have sorted out the old rhizomes and finished trouble-shooting for the iris borer and it is time to replant. Cut the fans back to about 2 to 3 inches in height and group them in sets of three to five fans. When replanting bearded iris my Dad always instructed me to plant the rhizomes like “ducks on water.” The rhizome should not be completely buried, leave half of it above the soil level. If it is completely buried, it will surely rot (and definitely not bloom.) Be mindful of mulching over the rhizomes because this will encourage them to rot, as well.

And remember; come next spring while you are perusing the garden take time to inspect the foliage. If it appears that something is feeding on the blades remove them or run your fingers along the length of the blade, applying slight pressure. If the iris borer larva is there you have likely crushed it. Late spring is the best time to control the borer because once it has reached the rhizome there is little you can do.

USDA officials stand with farmers affected by extreme weather, natural disasters

As serious drought conditions continue to creep across nearly two-thirds of the lower 48 states, U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) officials are fanning out to rural communities across the country to show support to farmers and ranchers affected by a string of extreme weather in 2012.

USDA agencies have been working for weeks with state and local officials, as well as individuals, businesses, farmers and ranchers, as they begin the process of helping to get people back on their feet. USDA offers a variety of resources for states and individuals affected by the recent disasters. Individuals can also apply for other types of federal disaster assistance at www.disasterassistance.gov.

In rural communities, USDA’s Rural Development works with existing individual and community borrowers that have been affected by a natural disaster to help them with their loans. With respect to loans guaranteed by Rural Development, borrowers should initially contact their lender for assistance.

The USDA Food and Nutrition Service provides food assistance to those in need in areas affected by a disaster. This Federal assistance is in addition to that provided by State and local governments. USDA provides disaster food assistance in three ways: provides foods to State agencies for distribution to shelters and other mass feeding sites; provides food to State agencies for distribution directly to households in need in certain limited situations; and authorizes State agencies to issue Disaster Supplemental Nutrition Assistance Program (D-SNAP) benefits.

For additional information and updates about USDA’s efforts, visit www.usda.gov/disaster.
